In Between: one teen, two cultures by P.T. Rezende

Did the memoir sound real and informative?

Since the characters lacked names, did it generate confusion?

What were your impressions of the teen?

If you were the teen's mother, how would you have dealt with the child in the same situation?

Which transitions were the most significant for the child and the mother in this story?

Of all the people in this book, who would you have liked to meet? Why?

Were the issues about family and travel interesting?

What were your impressions of Brazil before and after you read the book?

Was the book's content what you expected?

Who can learn the most from reading this book? Why?
