

Questions for Parents

In Between: one teen, two cultures by P.T. Rezende

- What do you think of the issues brought up in this book?
- Is language learning a topic that attracts your interest? Why?
- Are you or anyone else going through some of the circumstances talked about in the book?
- As a parent, how would you raise a bilingual child?
- Which language learning resources are available today but were not available over a decade ago?
- What are the complications and rewards of having an intermixed cultural experience?
- How far should parents push a child to learn a foreign language?
- What are some ways to promote a child's ability or willingness to process more than one language?
- What did you learn from this teen's experience?
- Are parents really aware of how to raise a child in a global society?